Mike Rutherford, Rutherford Learning Group
- Administrators routinely make decisions about things that impact the quality of other's lives - budgets, room assignments, committee responsibilities, supervision duties, and planning periods, etc. With power comes a responsibility to exercise that power in an ethical and moral manner with both integrity and transparency. "Each administrative decision carries with it a restructuring of human life. That is why administration at its heart is the resolution of moral dilemmas." (Foster, 1986). This session will provide principles and strategies for getting decisions right, both technically and ethically.*
